

HALLOWEEN POEM

Tonight is the night when the ghost moans and sighs,
You can run but you just cannot hide,
Pumpkin lanterns full of light,
Brightening up the darkening night.

The witches dreams come true,
For all the evil spirits and witches are now near,
These are the things we wish for you,
Tonight's the night of Halloween.

Remember to wear your costume,
When witches go riding and black cats are seen,
When the moon is high and the day is done,
Tonight is Halloween.

Tonight is the night when the dead come to life,
Have a scary and fun-filled Halloween night,
Witches and wizards out in the streets,
Get scared of them my dear!

Happy Halloween!

